Selectmen's Meeting

SEWER BUDGET

Mattapoisett Selectmen, acting upon the best estimate available, will ask for approximately $30,000. to operate the sewer system. The cost of sewage treatment in Fairhaven is based upon the volume of sewage pumped. This flow can only be estimated, at present, because Mattapoisett's meter is not registering the present volume of sewage. Charles Morgan, superintendent of the system, explained in a letter to Selectmen that the meter has never functioned and he suggested that the engineering firm look into the problem. Since Mattapoisett cannot meter the flow, it must use estimated figures furnished by Fairhaven of $24,515 for treatment, the balance is for operating the pumping station, maintaining the system and municipal use. Of the $30,000, $1225 would be for municipal use of the system. This would be paid out of general town funds and the balance would be assessed to homes tied into the system. This sewer assessment would be based on 190% of the water bill for the home with a minimum charge of $57 per year. Last year's budget was $23,000.

ASKS TOWN TO WAIVE FEES

June Mendell, Elderly Housing Authority Director, asked Selectmen to waive all fees for permits and inspections connected with the construction of the 1.92 million elderly housing project. Ms. Mendell said that the authority needs to save in every way possible since inflation has increased estimated construction costs so sharply. She said the originally planned 60 units will have to be reduced to 51 to reflect these increased costs. The project has a target date of December 1980 to begin construction.

Selectmen voted to waive the fees and will notify authorities in Boston.

ROUTE 6 OPINION

The State D.P.W. requested the Selectmen's opinion on widening Route 6 by 4 feet or leaving the road the same width and relining the road to leave one travel lane and one breakdown lane in each direction. Either plan would qualify Route 6 for a federally funded safety improvement program.

The Selectmen invited comment of the townspeople on their preference of either of these plans.

AUDIT SET

The Department of Revenue has notified Selectmen that, by the Selectmen's request, Mattapoisett will be audited on June 30, 1981.

Who Needs the Olympics?

Editorial D. C. J.

Who needs to watch the fastest, the highest, the strongest as they show what years of discipline and sacrifice can accomplish? Who needs to observe finely tuned young bodies in split second perfection? Who needs to watch the flag raised in honor of performance? Who needs the pride that fills the throat and the eyes to the brim? We've had two weeks to watch the world's best display talent, nerve, strength, character and sportsmanship and what a lift it is after a steady diet of the dregs. Those who believe that only the fictional underdogs come out winners have to be confounded with the U. S. hockey team which battled from behind constantly and won it all from the "professional" Soviet team which has beaten the cream of the U.S. pros. No one could have written a believable fictional script to compare with the series of games which led a pick-up team to their gold medal. The joy that capped this one performance multiplied by millions must have sent a measurable pulse out into the universe. Great as this team effort is, it certainly did not eclipse achievement of the quiet heroics of Eric Heiden who won a gold medal for every ring of the Olympic emblem in the greatest individual performance of Olympic history. Great as these victories were to lift the hearts of Americans, there was enough to go around the world from postage stamp size Liechtenstein to the vast territories of Russia, Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, East Germany, Finland, France, Canada, West Germany, Czechoslovakia to the single skater from Poland. For every country in the competition there was a moment when the spotlight put the best of their best on display. For these performances, the applause and appreciation was thunderous. For the weeks the countries of the world saw their finest rise from small towns and the obscurity of cities where they have practiced and trained and disciplined themselves to a fine edge.

The Olympic ideal is peak coordination of mind, body and spirit. We need this inspiration. Great as our need is to have this pride, the effort of these athletes is individual. It is they who practice, who sacrifice, who condition themselves to their peak. This individual effort has no place as a pawn in the relations between nations. The fastest way to destroy an ideal is to introduce it to political influence.

But that cousin, Emily Florence Priest Brockman, wasn't really lost, she was just tracing her roots, and finally she traced them to Rochester, and in so doing she found her second cousin, once removed, Cousin Ed, living in nearby Freetown. Ed and his family are all Rochester natives.

Genealogy is a tricky thing, and digging into the past can be very confusing, but not for Mrs. Brockman, a 65-year old retired school teacher. It's her hobby and she finds it very interesting and at times very rewarding.

"I was amazed that I was still able to find someone so close kin to me living so near to Rochester", Mrs. Brockman exclaimed. She points out that "Cousin Ed" and her mom, Florence Randall Priest, were second cousins and never knew it.

After years of looking into genealogy books and archives in both North and South Carolina, Mrs. Brockman learned that the patriarch of the Randalls, Job Randall, of Rochester, had 11 children. One of those children was Thomas Randall, Emily's great grandfather who was born in 1792 and went South at a young age.

Mrs. Brockman is quick to point out that her great-grandfather was called Captain Thomas Randall and is believed to have been in active service in the War of 1812. In addition, he owned many acres of land in Little River, South Carolina. His primary profession was commerce and he sailed his vessels between Little River and Wilmington and other ports.

Records show that Thomas' son, John William Randall (Mrs. Brockman's maternal grandfather) fought for the Confederates in the Civil War.

Mrs. Brockman's records also show that Cousin Ed's grandfather, Leander Randall, born in 1807, was Capt. Thomas Randall's brother. Ironically, Leander's son George H. Randall (Ed's father) later fought in the Civil War on the side of the Union.

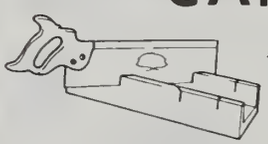

Mrs. Brockman has made a study of geneology for the past 25 years. She notes that her thirst for more family history has taken her to such places as the State Archives in South Carolina, National Archives in Orlando, Florida, North Carolina state and local libraries and County courthouses to research wills, deeds and land indexes.

As the search drew closer to Rochester, Mrs. Brockman researched the Town Hall records and cemetery records. Finally, after a one-hour phone call from Florida and reaching George F. Randall (Ed's grandson) and meeting with the assistance of Mrs. Barbara Besse, both of Rochester, Mrs. Besse being a distant relative of Ed's, Mrs. Brockman knew where to find Ed.

Finally, Mrs. Brockman, who has a daughter living in Sudbury, came down to meet her cousin.

Remembering their first meeting Ed exclaimed "I thought that all the Randalls lived in Rochester."

Ed, a former cabinet maker, lived much of his life in Rochester but has resided for about 20 years in Freetown where he lives with his son, Edgar Arthur Randall.

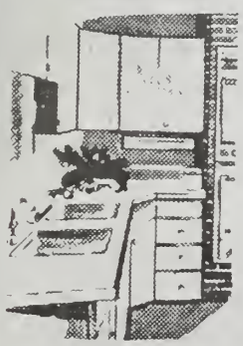

Mr. Randall was the recipient in 1979 of the Boston Post Cane for being the oldest resident of Freetown.

Sunday afternoon, March 2, marks the second concert of the season for the New Bedford Symphony Orchestra. The performance will be held at the old New Bedford High School auditorium at 3 p.m. and will feature as soloist Fall River violinist Ann Danis performing the Mozart Violin Concerto No. 3. Other works on the program include Bela Bartok's Hungarian Folk Dances, Charles Ives' Unanswered Question, and Haydn's Symphony No. 104 'London'. The performance will be conducted by the Symphony's Music Director Rudolf Schlegel.

Violin solist Ann Dannis, a Fall River resident, is widely known regionally as soloist and teacher. Her musical education was received at the New England Conservatory in Boston, where she completed her Bachelors and Masters degrees in applied violin. She has studied with Joseph Silverstein and George Zazofsky. She is currently string specialist with the Fall River Public Schools and conductor of the Durfee High School Orchestra, as well as concertmaster for the Cape Cod Symphony Orchestra and Fall River Symphony.

Letter to the Editor

Approximately six months ago the possibility of public access to Snow's Pond was brought before the Selectmen of Rochester.

Snow's Pond, like Mary's Pond, is a Great Pond, which means that under the statutes of the state of Massachusetts public access should or could be provided either by the state or by the town. It is also slightly larger in acreage than its sister pond, Mary's.

As most know, there is already an existing public beach on Mary's Pond which is filled to over-flow in the summer by fishermen, swimmers, and picnickers. The town of Rochester is planning to provide an additional beach in the same location for Rochester residents. The potential of this increased crowd of recreation seekers may be disturbing to everyone including fishermen, who like to enjoy some degree of solitude and be assured of unpolluted breeding grounds for fish.

It would seem equitable as well as sensible to also provide some kind of public access to Snow's.

The surrounding land there is privately owned, but in view of the large amount already appropriated for the increasing use of Mary's Pond, why could not some of the funds be diverted to making a public access to Snow's? Both ponds could then share the responsibility for public recreation.

With the oil drilling to come at George's Bank we shall be fortunate if our sea shore is not covered with oil spillage and places for swimming become more and more restricted.

I hope that the citizens of Rochester consider this matter fully before appropriating any more funds for the further development of Mary's Pond.

BOY SCOUT TROOP 53 FEBRUARY CAMPOUT

"Anybody want a chunk of milk?" "Hey! My juice won't pour!" "My bacon strips won't peel off". These were just some of the comments heard Sunday morning at Camp Nunes when 25 Boy Scouts of Troop 53 camped out for the first time with new Scoutmaster Ed Jackson. The boys got a first-hand look at the importance of survival training. They set up camp in a cold rainstorm, gathered firewood, dried clothes, cooked supper and crawled into sleeping bags only inches off the frozen ground. Sunday morning found frost on the inside of the tents and a low wind chill. How do you get a teenager out of a warm sleeping bag on a cold

ROCHESTER YOUTH HOCKEY RESULTS

MITES: On Sunday afternoon, February 24th, inspired by and in honor of the USA Gold Medalist Olympic Hockey Team, the PLYMOUTH SAVINGS BANK MITES beat Dartmouth #1 by a score of 4-2. And, if the score itself and the win were not enough, Jimmy Gardner scored a Hat Trick for the occasion. (Jimmy just happens to be the nephew of the USA Goalie, Jim Craig.) Jimmy's first goal was unassisted, the second came on an assist by Brendon Tierney, and his third from Tierney and Peter Herman. Herman, also, had an unassisted goal and Chad Vincent was the Goalie. All of RYHA congratulates the Mites and Jimmy on this victory.

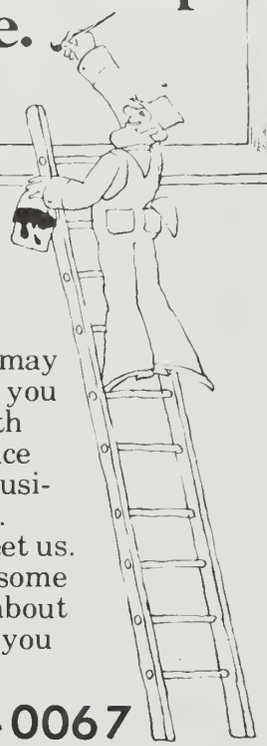

During vacation week the PLYMOUTH SAVINGS BANK team played two other games. On Monday, the 18th, they tied Dartmouth #2 by a score of 4-4. Todd Lyonnaise,
